State says it's final: office complex will go to Sacto

By Steve Marschke

State officials have reviewed West Sacramento's latest objections and have once again listed Sacramento's "Lot B" site as the "final" choice for a new, 850,000 square foot California Environmental Protection Agency.

West Sacramento's Lighthouse Marina Project once again finished number two after the results were re-tallied, said Val Toppenberg, deputy director of the West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency.

"The final ranking maintained Lot B as their first choice," said Toppenberg. "The Lighthouse Marina site came in number two, about five points behind. We're still concerned about some of the ways they scored the rankings, but they're telling us this is final."

The scoring was performed by the state's General Services Agency, and capped a process marked by heated competition from developers as well as the two neighboring cities.

Shot through window of motel kills woman

Police are still searching for clues in the shooting death of a 39-year old woman who was killed at a motel on the 1900 block of West Capitol Ave. on Friday. The shooting occurred about 6:15 a.m., while the woman was with several others inside her room, and the victim was apparently struck by a bullet fired from nearby outside.

The woman, Theresa Williams, died immediately. She had lived at the motel "for a while" previously, said Lt. Ron Moore of the West Sacramento Police Department.

"She was in a room with three other people," he said. "The drapes were pulled. The person shot through the windows and drapes and hit Theresa. It would have been hard for them to see her through the drapes."

The shot appeared to come from an alleyway outside the window, he added.

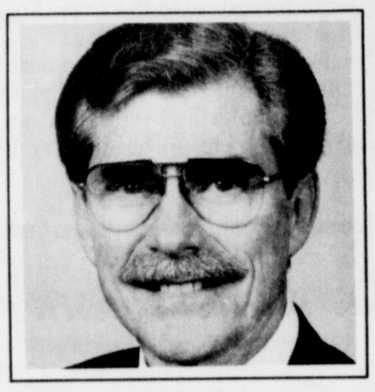
"It looks like somebody was walking in that area or drove through it," said Moore.

Anyone with information is asked to call the police investigations unit at 373-5870.

Senate candidates to debate

The two candidates for the November State Senate Election in District 4 will square off in a public debate on Friday at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at 2101 Stone Blvd. (Park Blvd. and Stone Blvd., World Trade Center Building, second floor).

MICHAEL McGOWAN



K. MAURICE JOHANNESSEN

The candidates are Michael H. McGowan, who served as West Sacramento's first mayor and is currently on the Yolo County Board of Supervisors, running on the Democratic ticket; and K. Maurice Johannessen, the incumbent Republican state senator.

The debate is sponsored by the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce.

Aside from a moderator, the debate will feature a panel of four to ask questions of the two candidates. News-Ledger editor Steve Marschke will be among them; other media personnel have also been invited to participate.

Any remaining time will be used for questions from the audience.

Rapist has struck at least one area woman

A rapist who may have attacked a number of West Capitol-area prostitutes or other women is being sought by West Sacramento police.

According to Lt. Ron Moore, the suspect is a black man in his 30s, about six feet tall and with a stocky build. Last Wednesday evening, he is believed to have raped a woman walking along West Capitol Ave., and he may have victimized other suspects as well -- although none of the other possible crimes has been reported.

"The suspect forced a woman into his pickup, which was a late model, teal-colored truck," said Moore. "He drove her a short ways and raped her, then released her."

The woman was not badly injured aside from the rape.

"We believe it isn't an isolated incident," Moore commented. "We have heard rumors it has happened to other women walking along West Capitol Ave.

Anyone with information is asked to call the West Sacramento Police Department's investigations department, 373-5870.

To undulate, or not to undulate is the question

Public criticism, combined with the late release of relevant information, has delayed the West Sacramento City Council's discussion of speed bumps and "undulations" as a traffic-slowing measure for some parts of the city.

At its Sept. 21 meeting, the council intended to consider adoption of the city of Walnut Creek's standards for speed bumps and the gentler "undulations," which rise only three to four inches and cover about 12 feet of street. Two thirds of the residents of the street involved must approve the installation of these "bumps" and "humps" for them to be installed, under the Walnut Creek standards.

But the plan wasn't made available to the public until after the meeting began, which some members of the public claimed violated their legal right to fair notice.

So the matter was tabled until the council's Oct. 12 meeting.

Residents of Carrie St. in the Broderick neighborhood, and of Alameda St., in the "old West Sacramento" area near Park Blvd., are now being polled on their wishes for speed humps or speed bumps on their streets.

Delaware St. resident Ray Cushing also strongly suggested at the Sept. 21 meeting that the council approve speed bumps for the area surrounding Memorial Park, in the "state street" area near Park Blvd.

He said that speeders routinely put children at risk in that area.

'Field of dreams' now 'field of memories'

■ Historic ball field is no more, and north area little league is looking for new places to play ball

By Steve Marschke

Generations of West Sacramentans have played baseball on the field on Sacramento Ave. in West Sacramento, next to the Riverbend Market complex.

But the next generation of little leaguers will have to look elsewhere for a diamond.

Last month, the Washington Little League was asked to clear out from its $1-per-year lease agreement with the owner of the property, the G.W. Williams Co. of the Bay Area. Although the younger kids who used the field will be able to double up on diamonds at the Bryte Park and Alyce Norman fields, the leagues 75-or-so "senior league" players are looking for a new place to play, with a big enough diamond, when the season resumes in March.

"G.W. Williams was real good to us over the years," said new league president Mike Hyett. "But we need another place to play. We need 300 feet to the outfield fence, and that's the problem we run into."

The older "senior league" players, he explained, cannot make do on a smaller diamond.

Hyett said that the old G.W. Williams site had been in use by the league for at least three decades.

"I've lived here since 1965, and my brother used to play ball there. It's been around quite a while."

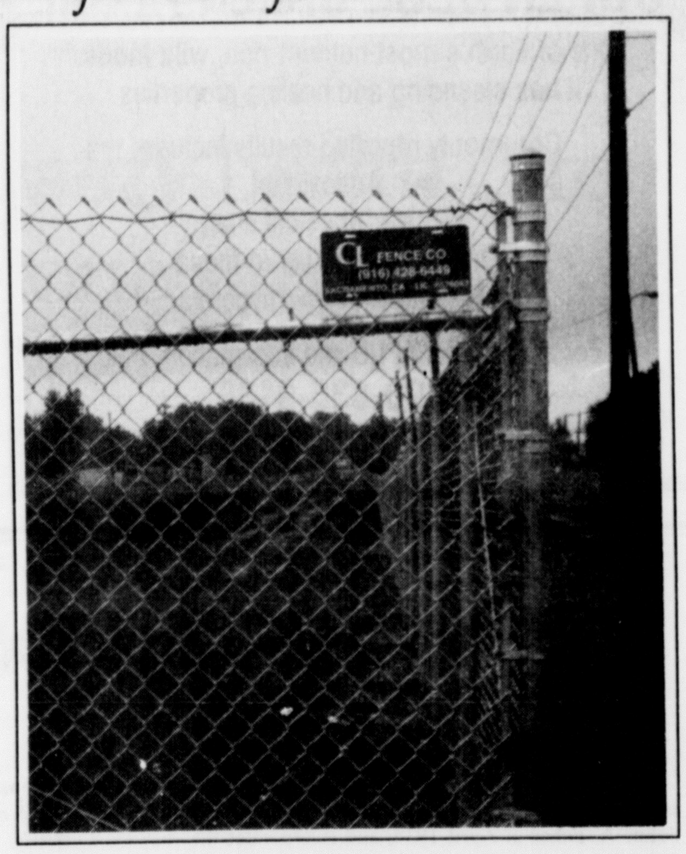
A spokesman for the G.W. Williams Company said the firm had no comment on its new plans for the property. The backstop has been removed, and the site is now completely fenced in.

One local resident, however, said the rumors have been that the city of West Sacramento has been negotiating to buy the land. The city already owns several undeveloped acres down the street, at the corner of Sacramento Ave. and Kegle.

That rumor could not immediately by confirmed.

Hyett said he has been involved in negotiations with officials from the city parks department and the school district, trying to find a place for the senior league to play. The only other suitable site that he knows of is the ball field at River City High School, and that site is already heavily used.

The West Sacramento Little League (which includes the city's northern area), the River City teams, the adult Legionnaires players already compete for space on River City's diamonds.



The old ball field on Sacramento Ave. is now fenced and closed to further play. Organizers of Washington Little League are now looking for another place to play ball.

"You've got to try to work things out with everybody, and we do need to try," said Hyett.

The alternative, he continued, is that the 75 players won't have a place to play, and will end up on the street, "taking my car apart and your car apart."

"The number one thing here is to try to help keep kids off the street. I have a kid playing in this league, and I'd rather have him there than on the street."

MacBlo has yet to apply for permit at Southern California site

A widely-perceived "competition" between the cities of West Sacramento and Turlock to land the MacMillan Bloedel/Haindl Papier newspaper recycling plant has apparently not begun in earnest, according to information from Colton officials.

That city's community development director, David Zamora, said that questions concerning the plant's water consumption and sewage production have yet to be worked out.

And Colton's public works director, Joseph Hutton, said Tuesday that the paper plant companies have not yet started the ball rolling on their application for local approval.

"There has been no application, to the best of my knowledge," said Hutton.

Hutton directed further questions to Colton's newly hired consultant on the paper plant project, who could not be reached for comment.

Both Zamora and Hutton told the News-Ledger that talks between the MacMillan Bloedel company and Colton were still in the informal stages, although local officials are generally receptive to the proposal.

The southern California town of Colton is located along the Santa Ana River, which presumably would supply the millions of gallons of water per day which would be required by the plant. But Hutton, whose office would be in charge of working with the plant on issues involving water and sewage, said that his office does not yet have firm details of what the plant will require.

Once an application is filed for a plant site in Colton, it would typically take months or years for such a complex project to win approval.

The paper plant backers first publicly announced their intention to build in West Sacramento in 1991. They have acquired city approval and a permit from the local air resources board, but are still working on solving questions on the proposed discharge of several million gallons per day of liquid wastes through a treatment plant into the Sacramento River.

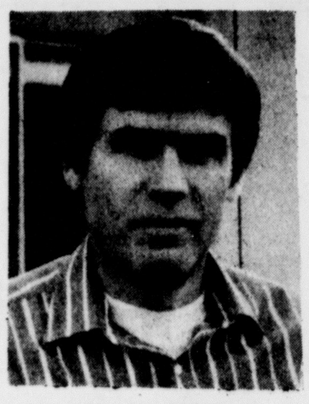
The company is now completing testing of liquid wastes from a similar plant in Germany, and results from these tests are intended to help define a sewage treatment plant solution for the proposed West Sacramento facility.

The company's backers have indicated that West Sacramento remains a "first choice" site for their new plant, and that Colton is not an immediate threat. The project is intended as an anchor tenant for the Southport Industrial Park, southwest of the Port of Sacramento and adjoining the deep water channel.

It is estimated to be about a $1 billion investment upon buildout.

The roof is leaking – or something like that

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Last Friday morning, I woke up to the words, "You better get up, Dad--I think the roof is leaking or something."

"What are you talking about?" I asked my son as I took my pillow and covered my head with it. "It didn't rain last night."

"Well," said my son, "all I know is that the kitchen, the bathroom and most of the living room is flooded with water."

"What?" I said, suddenly wide awake.

"Honest--go see for yourself."

"This better not be another one of those jerk dad around things," I warned him.

"I'm serious--there's water everywhere."

Upon closer examination, it didn't take long to discover that our water heater--which the brilliant builder of my home somehow saw fit to install inside the house instead of out in the garage where it belongs--had sprung a leak during the middle of the night and slowly released approximately fifty gallons of water throughout the house.

"What a mess," said my wife as she began trying to sponge up some of the water with bath towels. "Shouldn't we turn something off?" asked my son as he inspected the water heater. "Water is still coming out of this thing."

"You got me," I said, drawing once again upon my vast reservoir of mechanical expertise.

"Here's something I think you can turn," suggested my son, pointing to a little round knob near the top of the tank.

"Then turn it," I said, and much to everyone's surprise, the water suddenly stopped running out of the tank.

"Daryl," said my wife, looking down at the soaking wet carpet near where the brilliant builder of my house had installed a floor electrical outlet, "I don't like the sound of this."

"What sound?" I asked her.

"Can't you hear that?" she said. "This outlet is crackling."

"Crackling?" I said. "What are you talking about?"

"You know--crackling."

"What, like in Rice Krispies?"

We both bent down next to the outlet and she said, "Maybe I should unplug everything?"

"Just don't touch anything," I said.

"But feel this," she said, placing her hand next to the outlet. "All the water around it is hot."

I patted the area all around the outlet and sure enough, it was boiling hot. But thankfully, just as I was about to call the fire department, the crackling noise stopped. "Let's just call the homeowner insurance guy," she suggested. "I'm sure he'll know what to do and he can probably send someone out here to take care of everything."

"Are you kidding?," I said, my experiences with insurance people having not been very good ones. "No, I think I'll call Willie (fictitious name) first," I said, referring to a long-time friend of mine who knows all the ins and outs when it comes to insurance related matters.

"Don't do that," pleaded my wife, who has never much trusted Willie's not always ethical way of looking at the world, "Lord knows what he'll tell you."

Ignoring her advice, I gave Willie a quick call and explained what had happened, including all the snap, crackle and pops sounds. "Is your water heater on warranty?" was his first question.

"Yeah," I said, "for about another three more months I think--until the end of the year."

"Great," he said with excitement, "and how old is your carpet?"

"Oh, probably about ten years or so I guess."

"Boy, have you lucked out!" he exclaimed.

"Willie, it's eight o'clock in the morning and I'm standing in water up to my ankles. How do you figure I'm so lucky?"

"Because the water heater company is going to have to give you a brand new water heater--install it for free--and if you can get one of those carpet cleaner guys to say your rug is ruined--which is a piece of cake--then you're going to get a brand new rug for free, too."

"Really?" I said, looking down at my floor and suddenly realizing that I'm probably the only person in West Sacramento who is emotionally attached to his rug.

"Absolutely! But it's really too bad you didn't actually touch that electrical outlet, too."

"Why's that?"

"It's got one of those metal covers on it so when people step on it, it doesn't break, right?"

"Yeah."

"Well," he said after a hardy laugh, "the insurance game is a wonderful thing, and if you would have touched that baby while you were standing around on the wet rug with bare feet, you'd have electrocuted yourself for sure and Mary and the kids would have been rich beyond their dreams."

Flu shots coming for seniors

County health officials are encouraging people 60 years and older to take advantage of low-cost flu shot clinics this fall to protect themselves from influenza this winter. The 1994-95 influenza vaccine provides protection against A/Texas, A/Shangdong, B/Panama strains. Persons allergic to eggs should not be given the flu shot.

Seniors are the principal target of the public flu campaign because if they catch the flu, it can get serious quickly.

The clinics also provide pneumonia and tetanus shots. Pneumovax is given one time only and is $8. Tetanus is given every ten years and is $10. Flu shots are $3.

The clinics will be offered twice in West Sacramento; one on November 3 at Sam Coombs Activity Center, 205 Stone Blvd., between 1 and 3 p.m., and one on November 16 at the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way, between 1 and 3 p.m.

Raiders beat Lincoln

By Chuck Robinson

Friday night, the River City High School varsity football team was wound tight and beat Lincoln 57 to 20.

In the first five minutes of the game, Alex Victor scored from two yards out and Peter Santizo's kick was good, for an RCHS lead of 7-0.

Later, Justin Hanks threw to Duke Serowchak for an 80-yard touchdown, and Santizo's kick brought the score to 14-0. River City scored again on a 7-yard run by Alex Victor, and Santizo kicked the score to 21-0.

Lincoln then scored on an 82-yard pass, and ran the conversion to make it 21-8, River City in the lead.

In the second quarter, Victor again scored, on a 4-yard run, and Santizo kicked to make it 28-8. Lincoln came back with an 18-yard touchdown run, but failed to make the conversion, leaving the score 28-14 with River City in the lead. With 1:18 left in the half, Victor scored on an 11-yard run, and Santizo kicked to make it 35-14, River City, at the half-time mark.

In the third quarter, Lincoln kicked off to Victor at his own 20 yard line, and Victor exploded up the middle for an 80-yard touchdown. Jeremy Deaton ran the conversion, making the score 43-14.

Lincoln scored on a 12-yard run, and the conversion was no good, making it 43-20, River City.

The Raiders scored next on a 5-yard run by Paul Barber, and Santizo's kick brought the Raiders' lead to 50-20. With 7:58 left in the fourth quarter, Lincoln was backed up to its goal line, and tried to pass, but the ball was tipped and picked off by the Raiders' Paul Barber. Barber ran it in from seven yards out, and Santizo's kick brought the score to 57-20, River City in the lead.

Varsity defensive line coach Gary Campbell said, "We are obviously pleased with our defensive effort tonight. The line did an excellent job of controlling the line of scrimmage. One of the major things tonight as well was the special team play. They saved us outstanding field position all night."

Coach Rod Massey said, "It's so satisfying to finally see the offense come together. We invested so much time on the offensive side of the ball. This gives us a lot of momentum going into the Bear River game this Friday, in a big, big game."

Alex Victor carried the ball 13 times for 117 yards and ran back three kickoffs for another 138 yards, for a total of 255 yards and five touchdowns.

Rushing leaders were Victor with 117 yards; Angel Cardenas, 63 yards; Justin Hanks, 60 yards (he also passed for 155 yards and a touchdown); Josh Castro with 32 yards; Paul Barber, 22 yards; John Phoutachack, 16 yards; and Jeremy Deaton, 4 yards.

Defense was led by Terry Warford with 2 tackles, 6 assists, one fumble recovery, 2 QB sacks; Ryan Carr with 5 tackles, 4 assists, 1 KDP, 1 QB sack; Paul Barber with 5 tackles, 4 assists, 1 pass interception; Joe Flores with 5 tackles and 3 assists, and John Phoutachack with 3 tackles and 5 assists.

Some of the fans wonder why the same names appear in this space each week. I am sorry but I can't mention every player for what he does. I put every player in offense even if he only has 1 yard. On defense, any player who has 10 points or more has his name go into the paper. The paper doesn't have enough room for everything.

JVs lose a heartbreaker

In the second quarter of the junior varsity game, Lincoln scored first with a 45-yard pass. The kick was no good, leaving Lincoln ahead 6-0.

In the third quarter, River City responded with a 2-yard scoring run by Ying Saelee, and the conversion scored, making it a 6-6 tie. It looked as if River City would finish with a tie, but with three seconds left in the game, Lincoln completed an 18-yard pass into the end zone to beat River City 12-6.

On offense, Randy Byard rushed for 65 yards; Ying Saelee had 49 yards; and V.P.

See RAIDERS, p. 10

The Sports Insider

The Philadelphia Eagles had a bye two weeks ago and they used it to study film and prepare for the 49ers.

Randall Cunningham and his teammates could do nothing wrong in their 40-8 victory over the embarrassed 49ers. It was the worst loss the Niners have suffered since a 49-3 playoff beating at the hands of the New York Giants in 1987. It was also the worst regular-season defeat at home since a 45-3 loss to Detroit at Kezar Stadium in 1967.

It was 14-0 with 8:15 left in the first quarter, and then it got ugly!

The Niners limped into the locker room at half-time trailing by the score of 30-8.

Next week, the Niners, who are favored by 4 points, travel to Detroit to face the Lions and All Pro running back Barry Sanders. The 49ers will dig deep and rebound for a win in Detroit!

The NFL game of the week, for the AFC division lead, will be in San Diego as the Chargers (4-0), host Joe Montana and the Kansas City Chiefs (3-1). The Los Angeles Raiders (1-3) had a bye last week and travel to play New England (3-2), which has a three game winning streak. The Raiders need a win very badly in Seattle looking for their first victory of the season! Look for Elway and the Broncos to bounce back after a tough loss on Monday to Buffalo to beat the Seahawks. Buffalo (3-2) and Miami (4-1) will have a shoot-out in Buffalo for the Eastern Conference lead.

In the NFC the game of the week "Buddy Ball" and the Arizona Cardinals (1-3), fresh off their first win last week against the Vikings, roll into Dallas and play the Cowboys, who may be without the services of Emmitt Smith, who pulled a hamstring last week. Look for an upset in Texas!

The Sacramento Gold Miners (6-6-1) needed to win last week to stay in the hunt for the fourth and final playoff spot and the team responded with a 19-16 victory in Saskatchewan (7-6), and now trail the Roughriders by one point. The Gold Miners host Toronto this Saturday at 7:30 p.m. on Hornet Field.

Plenty of good seats are available, so go out and have some fun and support the Gold Miners.

See ya next week!!

News-Ledger Editorial

No need to panic.

West Sacramento is not about to "lose" the MacMillan Bloedel paper plant to southern California. Set aside for a minute the question of how much of a loss that would actually be.

It's just that the excitement that West Sacramento might lose the plant, voiced in a regional business publication last week, is premature.

Consider instead that the plant's backers have not yet even fully briefed the city of Colton on the intricacies of their proposed operation, and have not filed any permits to build. On the other hand, "MacBlo" has reportedly invested over $3 million and at least three years in the West Sacramento permitting process. It is not about to walk away from this investment to start a similar process elsewhere simply because the sewage problems will take a few more months to solve.

There is simply no way, after all that West Sacramento and other local agencies have done to move the project along here, that Colton is going to win any kind of a footrace with this city to approve the plant.

On a related topic, West Sacramento is smart to explore the option of paying Sacramento County to treat this city's wastes (and, potentially, the wastes of the new paper plant). This proposal could turn out to be the most feasible way to handle the city's current waste treatment woes, as well as the challenges that future growth will bring.

But West Sacramento should be cautious, while considering this option, not to make its historic mistake: falling over backwards (and injuring itself) in its attempt to make every development proposal happen. The sewage solution chosen by the city, whether it be the construction of a new plant, or a contract with the one in Elk Grove, should be the solution that best fits West Sacramento.

It should not simply be the fastest solution, or the one which brings the paper plant on line quickest. It should not even be dependent on the paper plant.

No, the solution should be a wise and cautious one -- not a frightened and intimidated response to the threat of "losing" the paper plant to another city.

Illegal immigration is tremendous drain on California

By Mike Huffington, candidate for Senate

Recently, I toured a 14-mile stretch of U.S.-Mexico border with California Border Patrol officials. Across those 14 miles, 40% of all illegals cross into the United States.

And they come to stay. The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service estimated that 52% of all illegal immigrants -- 2.3 million people as of 1992 -- have settled in California.

Legal immigration is healthy for our state, but illegal immigration is not. The flood of illegal aliens into our state is costing California taxpayers between $3 and $5 billion annually. It has led to increasingly overcrowded schools and prisons, is a major cause of our state government's chronic budget crises, and contributes to crime in our streets.

"[California] clearly bears the heaviest burden of all the states," according to David Simcox of the Center for Immigration Studies. "It has more illegal aliens than other states, and...[i]n addition, California is very generous with its social services."

What is the solution?

First, we must stop illegals at the border. I met recently with the head of the border patrol in El Paso, Texas, Sylvestre Reyes. Reyes showed me first-hand how he had virtually closed down a 20-mile stretch of the Texas-Mexico border to illegal crossings. His program, called "Operation Hold the Line," is as simple as it is successful -- he effectively formed a blockade, placing 400 officers along the border.

It may seem insane to you and me, but our current border policy is to let illegals cross over and then try to catch them. Chief Reyes' innovation was to stop them at the border in the first place. His plan worked -- El Paso went from around 1,400 apprehensions a day to only 200.

The amount of money the government already confiscates from citizens in taxes is outrageous. To turn around and give it to people who are in the country illegally is to add insult to injury. I do not believe California taxpayers should be forced to pay for federally-mandated public services for illegal immigrants.

I support implementation of the Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlement (SAVE) computerized data system in all state public assistance agencies. Illegal aliens should not receive health benefits except for emergencies and to treat infectious diseases.

A sovereign nation must control its borders. That's why I have voted for more border guards, and co-sponsored a bill to add another 2,500 agents from displaced military personnel.

Finally, we must do something about foreign nationals who cross over the border to give birth and obtain American citizenship for their children. Senator Jacob Howard, who wrote the citizenship clause in the Fourteenth Amendment, said it was not intended to include persons born here who are "foreigners" and "aliens." The Constitution should be amended to prohibit automatic citizenship for the children of illegals.

My opponent seeks to pay for the costs of stopping illegal immigrants by taxing Americans who cross the border. She also voted against an amendment to the Motor Voter Bill that would have created civil penalties for falsely representing or attesting to citizenship. As mayor of San Francisco, she signed an ordinance making the city a sanctuary -- a safe haven -- for illegal immigrants, in plain defiance if federal law.

Californians are not against immigration; most of us came here from somewhere else. But, we must put an end to illegal immigration in order to maintain our honorable tradition of generous legal immigration. As your U.S. Senator, I will work to regain control of our borders and gain the confidence of law-abiding citizens. With new leadership in the Senate, we can put a stop to giving away ever greater portions of our income to illegal aliens.

It is this community-minded spirit that will enable us to continue offering this kind of event in the future.

Thank you for your support.

CINDY L. TUTTLE
Mayor, City of West Sacramento

Several provocative issues have been brought to light recently and those which our city council make take action on at its October 5 meeting at 7 p.m. include: (1) Should West Sacramento pay $15,000 - $20,000 for a feasibility study to determine if our city should hook up to Sacramento County's Elk Grove sewage treatment plant rather than build its own larger, more modern plant? While this may seem the simple way to accommodate the needs of the approved MacMillan Bloedel paper recycling plant in Southport, the big drawback is this: To what extent would such an arrangement allow the city and/or county of Sacramento control West Sacramento's growth? How much "reserve treatment capacity" might officials across the river hold back for future development on their side before they tell us, "Sorry, your remaining capacity only permits you to build warehouses and the like?" (Since Sacramento would seem to be a prime beneficiary of the plant with all of the state offices, why not just let Sacramento have the plant -- and all of the headaches, too?) (2) Since too many of our drivers drive too fast too often, city council will consider speed humps (as per Walnut Creek's policy) on selected streets. While such street modifications should slow down the traffic, the rougher roads will also be rougher on other vehicles (including emergency type) and could increase the chances for accidents...to the degree such action may cause some to lose control, especially in the rain. (Maybe we should rearrange or add some stop signs...or video cameras? The effect on city liability as well as changes in overall safety cannot be ignored.)

Since Sacramento County appears to oppose the proposed $10/parcel/year to finance the proposed expansion/update of its own Port of Sacramento, it is doubtful that our neighbors really want to continue pouring money into a financial loser, let alone invest any more. Remember, too, how many more homes along Stone Blvd. would be made less livable...just ask Joe Muse. I would thus agree with Pat Stratfull and encourage local leaders on both sides of the river to close the Port of Sacramento and strike a deal with the Port of Stockton to absorb existing jobs. Make new use of the port properties which would be more compatible with existing development for an overall gain for both sides of the river, jobwise and otherwise.

The Sacramento river registered 3 feet 1 inch, U. S. gauge at the S. P. bridge yesterday. This was at high tide but the gauge at low tide showed a reading of only 1 foot 10 inches.

Last Wednesday evening, during the absence of Howard Lee and family from their home on Second Street, a burglar alarm was sent out by some one in the neighborhood advising that the Lee home had been entered by a burglar who was still in the house. An immediate response was made by Tony Borzone, Muchy Mathena, Tug Wilson and several other boys of the neighborhood. They surrounded the house in the absence of Constable Buckingham and waited for him till about nine p. m. Mr. Buckingham encouraged the boys in their efforts to catch the burglar and not a single avenue of escape was left unprotected. Cautiously the gang advanced towards the building fearing that the burglar might be armed and would likely be unsparing in taking the lives of anyone who prevented his escape. Desiring to save ammunition several of the boys took along big pieces of scantling and it was even proposed that the front door of the home be battered in to make immediate arrest of the intruder. Caution prevailed, however, and the posse decided to wait till the return of Howard Lee from a Sacramento theatre. Lee unlocked the front door and, followed by Constable Buckingham and several of the posse, the house was ransacked for the intruder but none was found. Finally Howard Lee found his little lap dog on the back porth who had scratched a hole in the screen door and who was the real burglar of the occasion. Innocently the dog barked with joy at the return of his master and the gang that wanted to protect him. During the time the posse was waiting for the return of Lee, one of them took a large rock and throwing it at the high fence on Ann Street produced consternation, for it sounded just like a shot and the gang scattered to the four winds.

Last Monday night an attempted robbery was made at the barber shop of Jack Reuther on Ann Street, between Second and Third. Reuther had gone to Sacramento to transact some business and his wife left the front door open for his return. An intruder noticing the open door entered the barber shop, at the rear of which is situated the Reuther dwelling. Mrs. Reuther was awakened by the noise and believing that her husband had returned she went to the shop to fasten the front door. There she found the intruder with a suit of clothes that had just been returned by a cleaner. Hearing her approach the intruder dropped the clothing and ran. He was followed over the M Street bridge by Postmaster Bennetts and Sid Rickard, but was lost in the jungles on Front Street. Mrs. Reuther declares she will be careful to fasten her front door during the coming winter season.

DANCE TO AID CHURCH ON OCTOBER 15 IS FULL OF PROMISE

In preparation of the big dance which is to take place in the town hall on Saturday evening, October 15th, and which is to be given in aid of the Catholic churches in Washing, Riverbank and West Sacramento the committee of arrangements is straining every point to make it a success.

Not only will there be a popular dance but between the dances there will be short numbers in the way of songs, recitations and comics by Sacramento entertainers. Special preparation is now being made for these features.

In addition some valuable prizes have been donated to the committee in charge of the arrangements. One of these is valued at $15 and will be given as a prize to the best couple in the waltz.

There are several door prizes which will be distributed to those who enter the hall, regardless of whether they partake in the dance or come as spectators.

The ladies of the churches have consented to act as a committee for the distribution of cake and ice cream, and on this committee Mrs. Olga Machado and Mrs. Angelina Simonini have consented to act.

The committee of arrangements consists of Antone Marty, Ed. Moss, J. Taylor, Martin Crean, W. Downs, Miss Mary Traversi, Miss Mary Annater, Miss Neville, Korrell and Miss Lillian Lear.

Judging by the widespread demand for tickets the dance and entertainment should be a great success.

CONFERENCE MAY BRING GOOD ROAD THROUGH WASHINGTON

Members of the Yolo Board of Supervisors met with the State Highway Commissioners last Tuesday in Sacramento to solve the question of a practical roadway through Washington to Sacramento.

At the meeting it was decided to call a special meeting for October 19 when the Sacramento Supervisors and other interested parties would be asked to lend advice in this knotty question.

The State Highway Commission is far from being satisfied with the road as it exists now. There are too many sharp turns and too many grades. The road is really dangerous, especially at Fifth Street and at the two railroad crossings at Fifth and Third Streets.

The expressed intention of building the road north of the railroad tracks on Elizabeth Street by the Yolo County Engineer brought along the question by the State Highway Commission.

If a permanent road is to be built it could be made to suit all purposes without duplication.

The meeting on October 19th is planned to solve this question and, no doubt, will be attended by many interested property owners.

BADLY MUTILATED REMAINS UNIDENTIFIED

Last Saturday night the remains of an unidentified man were scattered along the Southern Pacific tracks near Mikon for about a distance of three blocks.

A light engine proceeding to Sacramento had knocked the man down, severing his head completely from the body, but failed to stop because the crew believed that it could not remove the remains before the coroner had inspected it.

A few minutes afterward Train No. 20, a passenger fully loaded, came thundering along and dragging the body for several blocks, cut the remains into many small pieces.

By the crew on the light engine Constable Buckingham was notified and he with several local boys proceeded to pick up the remains.

There was nothing on the body to prove identification except an English-Spanish dictionary.

The man seemed to be a tramp of about 30 years of age. He had in his clothing a cake of soap and a soiled towel. Otherwise there were no articles or papers to show who he was.

The remains were taken to Woodland on Sunday morning by Deputy Coroner Wilson, where an inquest was held.

WEST SACRAMENTO HAS SUIT AGAINST WESTON BASKET COMPANY

To prevent the Weston Basket & Barrel Company from removing buildings on its site near West Sacramento headquarters, the West Sacramento Company has brought suit against the basket company to prevent the removal of buildings which are now situated on the land.

According to the contract of purchase of the land no buildings can be removed for a number of years, but lately the basket company started tearing down some of its buildings and removing the lumber to other quarters.

To prevent any further damage the West Sacramento Company started suit. The case will be up for trial in the Superior Court in Sacramento.

AUTO ACCIDENT ON YOLO CAUSEWAY BROUGHT DEATH TO FARMER

Thomas Dean, Sutter County farmer residing near Yuba City, was killed on the Yolo Causeway a few miles west of Washington last Wednesday night when an automobile driven by Sheriff B. B. Manford of Sutter County struck another machine and turned over.

Sheriff B. B. Manford sustained a cut on his forehead and a wrenched shoulder, and Mrs. G. W. Newbel of Yuba City sustained a wrenched back.

Mrs. S. P. Savateer of Elk Grove, was the only occupant of the second machine to be injured. With her in the car were her husband, son and daughter, E. R. and Grace Savateer, and J. S. Barr. All reside on the Foukes Ranch near Elk Grove.

Sheriff Manford and his party were returning from the Napa State Hospital, where Dean's wife had been taken. In reporting the accident to Coroner John T. Skelton, Manford said the second machine had no lights and had stopped on the Causeway. The Sheriff said he did not see the car until it was too late to avoid hitting it. Both cars were turned over and badly damaged. The accident occurred at about 8:30 o'clock.

Skelton said the Savateer party reported to him that they found the tail light of their machine was out and had stopped for the purpose of lighting it.

After the collision the injured were taken to the Emergency Hospital in Sacramento by C. E. Packard of Knights Landing. Dean was dead when his body reached the hospital. It is not known whether he died in Sacramento or Yolo County, but Coroner John T. Skelton has taken charge of the case. Skelton reported a fractured skull was the cause of Dean's death.

Dean is survived by two sons who reside at Yuba City. They were advised of the death of their father.

Sept. 29, 4:40 a.m.
A 21-year old man entered a West Capitol area supermarket, and was recognized by a clerk as a man who had previously tried to cash a stolen check at the store. Police were called, and found stolen checks in the man's possession. He was arrested.

Sept. 30, 1 p.m.
A 37-year old Sacramento man was reported to be sleeping in front of a Jefferson Blvd. business. Police found that he was on searchable probation, and found three hypodermic syringes in the man's coat pockets. He was booked and released.

A Laurel Ln. resident reported the tires of a vehicle had been slashed, possibly by a male suspect on bicycle.

Oct. 1, 2:30 a.m.
A female subject was reported to have stolen a 12-pack of beer from a West Capitol Ave. gas station/market.

Oct. 1, 2:45 a.m.
A Willow Ave. woman said her live-in, 22-year old boyfriend had slashed the tires on her vehicle following an argument. Then he broke the windows on the vehicle, choked her, and took the phone away when she tried to call 9-1-1, and took her by her hair and banged her head against the kitchen wall. Afterwards, he slashed the furniture in the residence. He was arrested.

A man stole two 12-packs of beer from a convenience market on Jefferson Blvd., but a clerk provided police with an identification of his vehicle.

Oct. 1, 6:30 p.m.
Police stopped a vehicle because it matched the description of a stolen car. After learning that the vehicle was not the correct one and releasing the suspect, the officer was informed by dispatch that the 18-year old driver had been wanted on an outstanding warrant. The suspect was picked up and arrested by another officer.

Oct. 2, 2 a.m.
A Castle Ct. woman reported that neighbors were riding motorcycles on their lawn, and she would like police to make them quiet down.

Oct. 2, 3:10 a.m.
A vehicle being driven erratically was pursued by police along Cummins Way. The driver failed to yield, then stopped suddenly and attempted a U-turn. Police also saw him throw a revolver out the window at the same time. The 21-year old man was caught and arrested. He had gang-related tattoos on his face and arm.

Oct. 2, 2 p.m.
A vehicle was reported burglarized at a Halyard Dr. motel.

Oct. 2, 5:30 p.m.
Police stopped a car at Rice and Maple. An 18-year old, male passenger gave police a false name. He consented to a search of his pockets, and police found a woman's telephone calling card in his possession. Police dispatch contacted the woman and found out that the card had been stolen and she wanted to press charges. The man was booked.

Oct. 3, 5:25 a.m.
A 7th St. woman reported that her car had been egged. Although she didn't see it happen, she said she believed she knew who was responsible.

No blame yet for crash

Police investigators are continuing to try to piece together the cause of a crash Sept. 22 that killed three people at West Sacramento's Jefferson Blvd./Linden Rd. intersection.

Robert William North and Sandra North, both in the 40s, were killed by the crash, as was West Sacramentan Timothy Crumrine, 19. Five others were hospitalized.

One victim remained in critical condition late last week.

Investigators believe the pickup truck carrying Crumrine and another man was travelling north on Jefferson Blvd. when it made a left turn and struck an oncoming pickup truck containing the Norths and the other victims.

Whether alcohol contributed to the crash, and who was at fault are still being determined. No charges have yet been filed.

Former RCHS instructor is accused of molesting girl

A West Sacramento man who used to be a long-time River City High School instructor, and currently serves as principal at a Vacaville high school, was arrested Monday evening for allegedly molesting a 15-year old girl in the parking lot of the Raley's grocery store in West Sacramento.

The incident was reported on a television news program Tuesday.

John Garlon Prewitt, 49, was charged with sexual battery and two related charges after the girl alleged that he squeezed her buttocks and sprayed her with perfume, according to Lt. Ron Moore of the West Sacramento Police Department.

He was reportedly placed on leave from his Vacaville school post on Tuesday.

Prewitt could not be located for comment.

How & what you can recycle

By Denise Kotko,
Recycling Coordinator
City of West Sacramento

With the recent expansion of curbside collection of recyclables to include used motor oil, consumers have asked for clarification on some of the claims made about recyclability. Weekly store purchases pose a dilemma for the environmentally conscious shopper. Some of the claims made on packaging indicates that a product is "recyclable" or "biodegradable." While there is a high possibility that most of these claims are accurate, consumers must put such claims into the perspective of what is recyclable within their own household. This is the technicality of recyclability. In order for a product to truly meet the recyclability test it must meet two conditions: (1) the product must be able to be recycled under local conditions, and (2) the consumer must be willing to participate in the environment.

The local market condition is a result of many factors, including consumer buying habits. Constantly changing market conditions are difficult for the professionals to keep track-of, let alone to try and inform the consumer. For this reason, West Sacramento collects curbside products that meet the local market condition requirement on a stable basis. These products currently include plastics marked PET 1 and 2, glass, aluminum, newspapers and the most recent addition, used motor oil. As stable markets develop for additional materials, collection items are added to the program. This was the justification recently of adding used motor oil to the curbside program. As the demand for the oil increased, a stable market was developed allowing the addition of the product to the program.

As a consumer, point of purchase decisions should include, we hope, the question of whether the item will be recycled. Not in some far away program that exists for only a few communities, but within the daily environment of the consumer. This is a thought that we may all want to keep in mind when shopping. One example is drinks packaged in plastic containers other than PET 1 and 2. The environmentally aware consumer may want to purchase that product in the plastic only once. Subsequent purchases can then be made in concentrated form to "refill" the container. In another example, items marked "biodegradable" may only work with stringent processing. The processing may simply not exist in some communities. If you have any questions on the ability to recycle a product locally, contact the recycling coordinator for the city of West Sacramento at 373-5810.

No more fee for use of federal waters

The California Department of Boating and Waterways has issued a reminder to boaters that the U.S. Recreational Vessel Fee was repealed effective October 1, 1994.

The federal fee program, which came into effect on August 1, 1991, required vessel owners operating on federal waters to pay a fee and display a decal, according to a schedule based on vessel length.

Under federal legislation to phase out the program, vessels 21 feet or less in length were dropped from the decal and fee requirements on October 1, 1992, and a year later, vessels under 37 feet were made exempt. On October 1, 1994, the program will end, and recreational vessel operators will no longer be required to purchase or display a decal.

Volunteer on behalf of adult literacy program

Some of us take our reading skills for granted, but many adults in West Sacramento and other communities struggle daily to read simple signs or restaurant menus. By attending a ten-hour volunteer workshop scheduled for November with the Sacramento Library Literacy Service, you could help an adult learn to read. No experience needed. After attending the workshop you will be matched with a student. Tutors and new readers usually schedule meetings at times and locations convenient to both parties.

To enroll in a workshop or learn more about the literacy program, call 966-7323.

More workshops are scheduled for 1995.

Get ready for Community Day Parade

From the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce

For the 19th year in a row, West Sacramento will proudly celebrate its unique sense of togetherness with a Community Day Parade, Health and Safety Fair and Heritage Festival. West Sacramento continues to notify the world around it that this community of 30,500 plus is a team of residents and business folks who care deeply about its future and join to make it better; the theme of the event is "Together We Can."

Set for Sunday, October 16, the family-oriented fun event will include the annual parade, which is set to begin at 1 p.m. on West Capitol Avenue, heading east from Harbor Blvd. and travel just a few yards past Jefferson Blvd. The parade route spill onto the southeast corner parking lot at Jefferson Blvd. and West Capitol Avenue; where it will meet up with the annual Health and Safety Fair and Heritage Festival.

The City of West Sacramento sponsored community function is being coordinated by the local Chamber of Commerce and planned and supported by local nonprofit organizations as well as the Washington Unified School District. For the first time in many years, all of the schools in the district will be entered in the parade. Bands and honor guards from Rio Linda, Bella Vista, McClatchy and Luther Burbank High Schools are scheduled to participate also.

The parade will feature a rather large equestrian contingent, competing for grand prize money, trophies and important parade points for state competition points.

Entrants from as far away as Napa and Mare Island have begun preparation for the event. The Napa Pepperettes and the Department of the Navy Combat Systems Technical School from Mare Island will "strut their stuff" on the streets of West Sacramento, as will West Sacramento's very own California State Young Miss beauty queen, Natalie Briana Miles.

An hour before the parade, local vendors and community organizations will set up display, activity and food booths at parking area at the southeast corner of Jefferson Blvd. and West Capitol Ave. and present a cornucopia of great fun and events that will last until 4 p.m.

While the event is set for Sunday, the parade is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. to allow the many families attending local church services will have time to participate in or view the parade and events after services.

Putting together parades and community events has never been inexpensive, according to West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce special events coordinator Elaine Roberts. "It not only costs in time and energy to produce," Roberts said, "it costs money."

"Thanks to donations from businesses such as the West Sacramento Grocery Warehouse and community organizations such as the West Sacramento Rotary, we are able to underwrite the event. We continue, however, to need financial assistance for the event."

There are several levels of sponsorship, she said. "Please call me at 371-7042 and find out how you can help." Booth space is available also, she said.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

What is that special something that makes one a good card player? Mostly, it's the ability to reason flawlessly and thus avoid simple mistakes.

Consider this deal where West leads the king of hearts against four spades. Declarer's first test comes at trick one, when he should allow West's king to hold the trick. Nothing can be gained by taking the king with the ace, and in the actual case doing so would cost South the contract.

Furthermore, when West shifts to the nine of diamonds at trick two, declarer should reject the temptation to finesse. Instead, he should win the diamond with the ace, draw trumps, and force out the ace of clubs. If South does all these things, he makes the contract, losing only a heart, a diamond and a club.

But if South slips by winning the opening heart lead with the ace or taking the diamond finesse at trick two, he fails in his mission. He loses two hearts, a diamond and a club, assuming best defense.

It is true that by refusing the diamond finesse, declarer gives up any chance of making 11 tricks. But it is also true that if he takes the finesse he may (and would) wind up with only nine tricks. Accordingly, he rejects the finesse. Finesses were never intended to be instruments of self-destruction.
